

Electrolysis

Set up the apparatus as shown using a nine-volt battery and alligator clips attached to wires, placed in a petri dish containing water. Detach one electrode from the battery and add some sodium sulfate solution to make the water a good conductor of electricity.

Attach the electrodes as directed by your experiment. Reattach the electrode to the battery and observe.

