

Decanting a Liquid

Pour the liquid very slowly from its original container into the new container, keeping the solid in the original container. It may be desirable to wash the liquid with a little water from a wash bottle, and pour this liquid into the container of the liquid obtained from the initial decanting.

